From the Ashkenazi Artscroll Siddur (Mesorah Publications Ltd, 1997, pp. 620-621.)

GOTT FUN AVROHOM

In some communities, women recite the following before Havdalah. See commentary.

God of Abraham,* of Isaac, and of Jacob, protect Your people, Israel, from all evil in Your praise — as the beloved, Holy Sabbath takes leave — that the coming week may arrive to bring perfect faith, faith in scholars, love of and attachment to good friends, attachment to the Creator, Blessed is He, to have faith in Your Thirteen Principles, and in the complete and close Redemption, speedily in our days, in the Resuscitation of the Dead and in the prophecy of our teacher, Moses, peace is upon him.

Master of the universe, since You are the One Who gives strength to the exhausted — give Your beloved Jewish children the strength to praise You, and to serve only You and no other.

May this week arrive for kindness, for good fortune, for blessing, for success, for good health, for wealth and honor, and for children, life, and sustenance, for us and for all Israel. Amen.

light, and evil, represented by darkness. The awareness that God took Israel to Himself as His Chosen Nation should cause inexpressible joy. Finally, the last cause of intense joy is the realization that Sabbath is God's special day of holiness and, as the Zohar teaches, He presented it as a gift to Israel (Yesod v'Shoresh Ha'Avodah).

בּאָש פּוּן אַבְרָהָם $— Gott fun Avrohom. It was customary in many European communities for the women to recite the following prayer for a successful week, before Havdalah. Since women generally did not recite the Maariv service, they would follow this prayer with בְּרוֹךְ הַמְּבְּרִיל בְּין לְחוֹל p. Blessed is He Who separates between holy and secular, as a substitute for אתה חוננתנו, You have graciously given us, which is inserted into the Shemoneh Esrei to proclaim the distinction between the sanctity represented by the Sabbath, and the secularity represented by the weekdays. Today, many women maintain the custom of reciting Gott fun Avrohom before Havdalah. Rabbi Levi Yitzchak of Berditchev. traditionally recognized as the author of this prayer, however, wrote that it should be recited three times by men, women, and children, and that this recitation would help assure success in the ensuing week. Because it was designed both as a prayer, and as a source of inspiration, it was composed in Yiddish, the prevailing language among Eastern European Jews.

גאט פון אברהם

In some communities, women recite the following before Havdalah. See commentary, גָאט פוּן אַבְרָהָם* אוּן פוּן יִצְחָק אוּן פוּן יַעֻקֹב, בַּאהִיט דַיין פָּאלְק יִשְׂרָאֵל פוּן אַכְּעָם בִּייזִין אִין דַיינֶעם לוֹיבּ, אַז דֶער לִיבֶּער שַׁבָּת קוֹדֶשׁ גייט אַנֶועק, אַז דִיא נָואך זָאל אוּנְז קוּמֶען צוּ אֱמוּנָה שְׁלִימָה, צוּ אֱמוּנַת חֲכָמִים, צוּ אַהְבַּת וְדבּוּק חֲבִרִים טוֹבִים, צוּ דְבֵיקוּת הַבּּוֹרֵא בָּרוּךְ אֱמוּנַת חֲכָמִים, צוּ אַהְבַת וְדבּוּק חֲבִרִים טוֹבִים עוֹבִים שִּלְךְ, וּבִּגְאוּלָה שְׁלִמָּה הוֹא, מַאֲמִין צוּ זֵיין בִּשְׁלשָה עָשָׂר עִיקְרִים שֶׁלְךְ, וּבִגְאוּלָה שְׁלִמָּה וְקְרוֹבָה בִּמְבוּאַת מֹשֶׁה רַבִּינוּ עָלָיוּ הַמְּלוֹם.

רְבּוֹנוֹ שֶׁל עוֹלֶם דוּא בִּיסְט דָאךְ הַנּוֹתֵן לַיָּעֵף כֹּחַ, גִיבּ דִיינֶע לִּיבֶּע אִידִישֶׁע לִינְדֶערְלֶעךְ אוֹיךְ כֹּחַ דִיךְ צוּ לוֹיבִּין, אוּן דִיךְ צוּ דִינֶען אוּן ווייטֶער לֵיינֶעם נִישְׁט.

אוּן דִיא נָואךּ זָאל אוּנְז קּוּמֶען צוּ חֱטֶר, אוּן צוּ מַזָל, אוּן צוּ בְּרָכָה, אוּן צוּ הַצְלָחָה, אוּן צוּ גָזוּנְט, אוּן צוּ עוֹשֶׁר וְכָבוֹד, אוּן צוּ בָּנֵי חַיֵי וּמְזוֹנֵי, לָנוּ וּלְכָל יִשְׂרָאֵל. אָמֵן.

54a) gives the reason for the institution of this blessing. Fire was created at the end of Adam's first Sabbath on earth. Then, God gave Adam the instinctive understanding to rub stones together in order to bring forth a fire for light and heat. Midrash Rabbah (11:2) elaborates that God did so in response to Adam's fear when he saw darkness falling. He was terrified lest, having been banished from the Garden of Eden, he would be faced with mortal danger that he could not even see. As in the case of all such blessings, one must enjoy the thing for which he thanks God, in this case, the illumination. Therefore, we hold our fingers up to the flame and gaze at its light upon our nails.

אות - Secular. [Although the more familiar translation is profane, we have chosen not to use it. The word profane has the general connotation of blasphemy and impurity. The message of Sabbath, however, is not limited to avoidance of the blasphemous and impure; rather it involves the need to recognize that even ordinary, secular, pursuits are deficient if they are not imbued with holiness.]

... פון קרש לחול בין אור לחשף. — Between holy and secular, between light and darkness... The holy represents sanctity, while און is the הקלפה shell, i.e., the outer barrier that prevents people from perceiving holiness. By recognizing the difference between light and darkness one is able to discern God's wisdom, and thereby make one's own distinction between good, represented by